ABSTRACT

This annual publication briefly reports on the findings of the third annual survey sent to 1,523 public schools and 421 nonpublic schools in Louisiana. Findings based on responses from 844 schools (55%) indicate that 81% of the schools are using computers, as compared with 32% in 1982-1983; the number of computers almost tripled in one year; CAI and computer awareness instruction were the most common functions, with administrative functions considered most important in usefulness; and inservice teacher training was the most important teacher need. Conclusions and recommendations for the Louisiana Department of Education are included. In addition to a sample survey instrument, the appendices provide data tables that list: (1) responding schools by grade levels and subject areas, by school within parish within type; (2) models of computers reported by schools, listed by school within parish; and (3) models of computers reported by schools, listed by school within parish within make of computer. THE USE OF THE COMPUTER IN LOUISIANA SCHOOLS

INTRODUCTION

The proliferation of computers in Louisiana schools is accelerating at an astounding rate. The Department of Education has made a concentrated effort in developing its role of providing information and guidance to the teachers and administrators. The current status of the use of computers in our Louisiana schools was measured to identify problems and needs in our educational community in order that the Department could design its activities to aid Louisiana schools in the effective use of computers. This publication briefly reports on the findings of the third annual survey. Any questions regarding the analyses of these surveys should be directed to Dr. John Hubbell at (504) 342-0090. The results of the first two surveys are described in earlier versions of Bulletin 1679 -- the May 1982 version and the revised April 1983 version.

THE POPULATION

There are currently 1,523 public schools and 421 nonpublic schools in the State of Louisiana. The public schools are distributed among 66 Local Education Agencies (LEA's). In 1981-1982 the Superintendent of each LEA was contacted by the SDE, and a short survey instrument was designed and mailed to the individual designated by each LEA Superintendent as Instructional Computing Coordinator. For the 1982-1983 school year a similar survey instrument was added to the Office of Academic Program's Annual School Report, which is sent to all public and nonpublic schools. For the 1983-84 school year the survey instrument was sent to all schools by January 1, 1984.

THE INSTRUMENT

The survey instrument, designed to capture information on the instructional use of the computer in the schools, is shown in Appendix A.

FINDINGS

Of the 1,944 schools contacted, 844 schools responded voluntarily to the survey. Of the 66 LEA's involved, all but one reported microcomputers in one or more schools. In the first year's survey, 40 LEA's had microcomputers in one or more schools. Currently, 682 of the responding schools are using computers in instruction, and 162 are not (Table 1). These figures indicate 81% of the schools are using computers this year compared with 32% in 82/83 and 27% in 81/82 (Table 2). The distribution of instructional computing across grades (Table 3) shows that all grade levels--K through 12--are involved, with the most involvement at the highest grade level. Of interest is the increase in activity in grades 4, 5, and 6. Table 4 shows the distribution of computer use across subject areas. Once again, the computer is used most in mathematics courses.

A total of 482 computers was reported by the schools in January of 1982, In October 1982 the total was 1,373. Thus in less than one year, the number almost tripled. This year the number is 4,350. This is more than three times last year's count (Table 5).

The Tandy Corporation computers maintained their place as the most widely used computers (Table 6). However their lead over Apple, in the number two position, has decreased. This year the Tandy computers represent 34 percent of the units, and Apple is next with 27 percent. Last year the Tandy computers represented 57 percent of the units, and Apple came next with 22 percent.

The numbers of schools employing the computer in the following functional areas are listed from most used to least used in Table 7. Computer Assisted Instruction, Computer Awareness Instruction, were first and second in number of schools. Slipping from last year's first place, Computer Science was number three this year. In ranking of usefulness, Administrative Functions is the use considered most important by the schools responding (Table 8).

Of major interest was the evaluation of the needs in the schools. Inservice Teacher Training was again considered the most important need, with 63 percent of the repondents ranking inservice training as the number one need. Equipment and software information ranked second and third in importance (Table 9). Comprehensive district planning was not available to 60 percent of the respondents.

The regular classroom was the most common location for the computers, followed by the computer laboratory (Table 10). The most frequent source of computer software is the commercial software vendor (Table 11). Software written by teachers, software from nonprofit consortiums, and software from the public domain were two, three, and four in numbers of schools.

Four hundred ninety-eight schools reported that their computer maintenance was provided by the local vendor (Table 12).

More than 6,000 teachers received training through inservice workshops in the past year (Table 13).

Table 14 shows the ratings of usefulness of possible computer services to be provided indicated that educators want the following services in this order of preference:

(1) a hot line to answer questions on computer and software;
(2) computer access to large data bases, such as BRS and SOURCE;
(3) an electronic bulletin board.

CONCLUSIONS

This study indicated that the number of computers in our schools has more than tripled in the past year. It is clear that the introduction of the computer into our Louisiana schools has occurred. A large number of our educational community have embraced this technological aid by providing both equipment and programs on their own initiative at the LEA level. However, most repondents felt that there was a strong need for information on using the computers and information on available software and hardware.

RECOMMENDATIONS

The Louisiana Department of Education has begun providing assistance in this area. The Department is providing more assistance through increasing activities in the following areas:

1. Computer Awareness Workshops for teachers and administrators.

2. Preparation and distribution of information packages, using all available media, about (a) instructional uses of the computer, (b) guidelines for acquisition of microcomputer hardware and software, and (c) guidelines for integrating use of the computer into the curricula of the schools.

3. Establishment of a statewide network of Computing Resource Centers through which the Department can aid in the orchestration of developing and distributing instructional computing resources and services to the educational community.

4. Participation on a State level in regional and national educational computing organizations that develop and distribute instructional software.

5. Establishment of a structure and process to continue to identify problems and the changing needs in this area. The recent formation of a statewide task force on computer literacy represents a beginning in this area.

The microcomputer is in our homes and schools. The Department's active guidance in instructional computing is needed to encourage minimal waste and confusion and maximal benefits from this technological aid to education.

APPENDICES AND THEIR USES

The appendices are designed to enable educators to locate schools using similar computers in similar areas in order to share ideas, educational materials, software, and hardware information. Appendix A shows the survey instrument.

Appendix B indicates in which grade levels and subject areas schools reported using computers. The schools are listed within parish within type. The left-most column contains the name of the school. The other columns represent grade levels K through 12 and the subject areas. A nonblank character in a column indicates that the school listed reported using the computer in that grade level or subject area.

Appendix C shows the make and model of computer listed by school. Appendix D shows the schools using computers listed by make. If a teacher in Caddo Parish is planning to use the computer in a business class, Appendix B would be used to locate schools in Caddo and neighboring parishes that are using computers in business classes. Appendix C provides information about the make and model of the computers used by those schools. Appendix D allows users of a particular make or computer system to locate other schools using the same system.

Computers of all kinds are being used with more frequency in our schools. We support this trend, but feel that teachers need more resources in order to use computers effectively. We are trying to determine what resources should be provided to the schools and to the Central Offices. If you have any questions, please call Shirley McCandless or John Hubbell at (504) 342-0090.
Please return by January 31 in the enclosed envelope.
